CAPTAINS’ MANUAL
Dear Captain,

I am very happy to welcome you and your crew in Toulon, the most beautiful harbour of Europe. It is indeed a great honour for our city, to be asked once again to be a host port for the Mediterranean Tall Ships Regatta.

You can be sure everything has been undertaken here, in order to make this call in Toulon a perfect and very successful one. This event represents for Toulon Provence Méditerranée a real opportunity and makes it possible to create a link between vessels witnessing the Sailing Navy Adventure and a city reviving its historical glorious past.

Together, let us be proud to participate in this tremendous event that will end with the nautical parade taking the vessels out of the port of Toulon towards the golden Islands of Hyères.

I would like to sincerely thank you for giving us this great honour in participating in this unprecedented event in Mediterranea. I wish you and your crew an excellent stay in Toulon.

Looking forward to welcoming you, please accept, dear Captain, my best personal regards.

Hubert Falco
President of Toulon Provence Méditerranée
Former Minister

Excursion n°1: The old Salt Marshes

Prepare yourself for an insight into the outstanding biodiversity of the old salt marshes of Hyères.

Certified since the Xth century (but probably even before), this site is formed of small independent salt farms dating back to the middle ages and reunited in one unit of production in the XIXth century. The old salt marshes also have a complex architecture that offers today, landscapes where the nature dominates.

Excursion n°2: The salt marsh of the Pesquiers

Enjoy the pleasure of discovering the salt marsh of the Pesquiers in the heart of the double sandbar of the peninsula of Giens. This modern salt marsh (built in 1848) was designed with architecture of typical basins of well-known Mediterranean salt marshes. Its preserved salt frame retains the memory of the salt and testifies the spirit of the place by widely echoing its industrial past.

Excursion n°3: The coastal path: a walk between land and sea on the massif of the “Colle Noire”

Put on your pair of trainers and come and survey the coastal path of the conglomeration of “Toulon Provence Méditerranée”. This trail winds the massif of the “Colle Noire” between sea and hills, and offers an outstanding natural and cultural heritage as well as breathtaking panoramas. Silence is gold all along this route. The surf of the sea hitting the cliffs is the only noise you’ll hear. Remember to equip yourself with good walking shoes, a cap and to bring a bottle of water.

Tax Free Shopping

If you are a traveller whose habitual place of residence is outside the European Union (EU) (1), in a third country (2), you may deduct value added tax (VAT) from the price of goods bought in France.

Warning: Not all retailers offer tax free shopping.

Who is entitled to a VAT refund?

- You must be:
  - A resident in a third country at the date of purchase,
  - And visiting France for less than six months.
  You must be able to provide proof of both these requirements at the time of purchase (identity papers if you are a foreign national; a consulate registration card or any other documentary proof if you are French and reside outside the European Union).

- The following are not entitled to VAT refunds:
  - Residents of a European Union Member State;
  - Residents of French overseas départements (French Guiana, Guadeloupe, Martinique and Réunion) and the overseas authorities of St. Barts and the French part of Saint Martin;
  - Persons who have been posted to a third country or territory treated as such (2);
  - Members of diplomatic or consular missions and international organisations who are stationed in France;
  - Students and trainees residing over six months of the year in France;
  - Immigrant workers (even if returning permanently to their country of origin);
  - Residents of Monaco;
  - Minors aged fifteen or under.

(1) European Union: Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden and the United Kingdom (including the Isle of Man).

(2) Countries that are not members of the European Union.

The following are treated as third countries, since they do not form part of the Community Customs territory:
- The Channel Islands, Andorra, the Faeroe Islands, the Canary Islands, Ceuta and Melilla, San Marino and Vatican City;
- Gibraltar and the Dutch part of St Martin;
- Büsingen and the Isle of Heligoland, Livigno, Campione d’Italia, Mount Athos and the Åland Islands.

Which goods are eligible for a VAT refund?

The goods that you buy must be retail purchases made as a visitor and must not be for business purposes. Warning: Because of their specific nature, some goods are not eligible for a VAT refund. They include:

- Some consumer goods: Manufactured tobaccos.

- Goods covered by special controls, such as:
  - Goods subject to special formalities (Washington Convention, end-use control procedure, licensing, etc.)
  - Petroleum products
  - Postage stamps
  - Weapons
  - Cultural goods
  - Private means of transport, including their accessories and provisioning (supplies, fuel, etc.).

For the last three categories of goods, there are specific exceptions for which VAT refunds are possible. Please contact the Customs service for further information (details at end of leaflet).
APPENDIX

How to obtain a VAT refund?

The goods that you buy must be retail purchases made as a visitor and must not be for business purposes. The total value of your purchases (including VAT) at a single shop on the same day must be over €175.

When you make your purchase the retailer will give you a VAT refund form. The two pages of the form must be signed by the retailer and yourself.

By signing both sheets, you are undertaking to complete certain formalities.

Before checking your luggage, you must present the goods and the form together for Customs inspection when the forms are stamped. Failure to present them will result in the cancellation of the forms and a possible fine.

- If you are leaving the European Union via a Member State other than France
  After inspecting them, the Customs service of this Member State will give you back both sheets stamped.
  - You must send the pink sheet back to the retailer yourself once you arrive in your country of residence.
  - You must keep the green sheet in the event of any dispute.
  - In all cases the retailer will pay you the sum entered on the form (Box D/2) as the VAT refund, according to your instructions and particulars.
  - The retailer may alternatively grant you the VAT refund at the time of purchase (Box D/1 of the form), which does not exempt you from the above formalities.

Warning: The retailer must receive his Customs stamped sheet within six months of departure from the European Union.

If your form can be electronically certified at a PABLO station, the message “OK Bordereau valide” (OK, form validated) will appear, confirming that the goods have been exported. This is the equivalent of a Customs stamp. You do not need to mail the retailer one of the form’s sheets. He or she will be notified directly of the electronic certification.

If your form has a PABLO logo and a barcode, you should certify the form using the optical barcode reader stations available at certain departure points (including Roissy Charles de Gaulle, Orly-Sud, Nice-Côte-d’Azur, Lyon-St-Exupéry, Marseille-Provence, Geneva and St Julien-en-Genevois). This formality must be completed before the end of the third month following the month when goods were purchased.

- If you are travelling on an international train
  You must have the VAT refund form stamped by Customs either during the journey or at the border station (on leaving the European Union).

- If you are leaving the European Union from France
  If your form must be manually certified, French Customs will give you back both sheets of your form, stamped with a Customs stamp.
  - You must post the Customs-stamped pink sheet to the retailer.
  - You must keep the green sheet in the event of any dispute.

Warning: The goods must be available for Customs inspection when the forms are stamped. Failure to present them will result in the cancellation of the forms and a possible fine.

Regularisation of VAT refund forms

This does not cover situations in which you have not been able to present either the form or the goods at the time of the goods’ departure from the European Union. If your form has not been stamped by Customs upon your departure from the European Union because of the organisation of the service, in exceptional circumstances, you may request the retroactive certification of the form. However, you must send a request for regularisation before the expiry of the six-month period beginning on the date of purchase, to the Regional Directorate of Customs and Excise whose jurisdiction includes your point of departure from the European Union.

You must state:
- The reasons that prevented you from completing the Customs formalities for export
- The name of the Customs office at your point of departure and the date of your departure from the European Union.

You must enclose with your request:
- Any official paper proving that you are a habitual resident outside the European Union and that you visited France for a period of under six months [photocopy of passport, identity card, consular card, residence permit, etc.]
- Proof of export of the goods: by having Box C2 of the VAT refund form stamped by Customs in your country of residence or a Customs receipt, or by having an accredited authority in the French embassy or consulate issue a certificate or stamp Box C2 of the VAT refund form.
- The second sheet of the original VAT refund form.
- A photocopy of your travel ticket.

For any other information you may call the Customs information centre (Infos Douane Service) at: +33 (0) 811 20 44 44 from 8.30am to 6pm Monday to Friday, Email: ids@douane.finances.gouv.fr

Code of Good Conduct for whale watching in the Mediterranean Sea

Whale watching can be a source of serious disturbance if badly done. The following rules allow our impacts on the vital behaviour of dolphins and whales (hunting, repose or inter-individual socialization) to be mitigated. Whether one is an amateur sailor, fisherman, whale watching operator or other user of the marine domain, these rules, set out below, apply equally inside and outside the Pelagis Sanctuary.

The pie chart defines two areas that are essential when approaching cetaceans: the area of vigilance (yellow) and the forbidden area (red).

!Area of vigilance (yellow) and the forbidden area (red).

- The area of vigilance (300 m) defines the sector in which the disturbance caused by your boat (presence, noise and exhaust fumes) is strongly felt by the animals. When you enter this area, your behaviour must respect strict rules to limit this disturbance:
  - the boat’s speed must be constant and attuned to the speed of the slowest animal. It must not be more than 5 knots;
  - any approach must be made according to a trajectory that gradually draws...
parallel to the animal’s path (green arrow in the pie chart). The boat thus positions itself alongside the cetaceans, moving in the same direction;
- any sudden change of speed or direction is forbidden;
- to mitigate acoustic disturbance, sounders and sonar must be switched off;
- be even more careful, and limit your distance of approach if you remark the presence of new-born animals;
- you must immediately leave the area of vigilance if the animals are disturbed: for example, flight behaviour (acceleration, changing direction, trying to get away from the observer) must be considered as a sign of disturbance;
- observation time is limited to half an hour;
- if many boats are present, only one is tolerated within the area of vigilance. Observation time is then shortened to a quarter of an hour and the other boats have to wait patiently 300 m away. Radio contact between the various boats will enable the watching to be coordinated;
- when the observation is over, the boat must gradually leave the site, taking a path that clearly signals that it is leaving. The speed will remain moderate for a distance that is sufficient to avoid the risk of collision.

Forbidden area (red)
The forbidden area defines the sector which your boat must never enter [except when the cetaceans approach the boat of their own accord]. This distance is 100 m. Any nearer than this and the cetaceans will see your presence as a danger or an intrusion into their vital space, and their behaviour will become greatly disturbed by it.

Also, the boat must not enter the sector in front of the animals [reduced field of vision]. Neither must it approach them from behind, since the boat may then be seen as a pursuer. When the boat reaches the outside limit of the forbidden area, its relative speed must be reduced to zero and its engine put into neutral gear.

It is forbidden to enter groups, for this will cause social disturbance.

Special case when the animals come to the boat of their own accord
When cetaceans voluntarily approach the boat, the passengers must not try to touch them directly or with an instrument, bathe near them or feed them. Most of the above rules also remain in force, particularly the ban on entering groups, and keeping to a slow, regular pace.

Generally speaking...
Once the cetaceans are spotted, or at 1,000 m distance, particular vigilance and a speed limited to 10 knots are compulsory: other animals may be present in the sector and the risk of collision cannot be ruled out. Furthermore, a greater speed would be likely to disturb the animals, even at this greater distance.

Generally speaking, whale watching is not recommended within the 5-mile coastal strip, since the cetaceans there are already greatly disturbed by human activity.

An operator must accompany his trip with an educational talk on cetaceans and the marine environment. This must be given by a qualified, trained guide. He must be able to identify the species encountered, determine their activity phases and notice possible disturbance.

In short
- Slow pace and calm, constant advance the moment the cetaceans are spotted, especially within the 300 m area
- No approach closer than 100 m
- Length of observation limited to 30 minutes, 15 minutes if other boats are waiting
- Only one boat within the 300 m area
- Never try to touch, feed or swim with a cetacean.
